Street Car System in Bad Shape.

The complaint yesterday against the street car company for not pressing into service, all cars possible and the trailers as well, was very pronounced. It seems very strange, but when a ball game takes place, the company will send out, seventeen cars and fourteen trailers, at two o'clock and hold them there for hours, thus breaking regular schedule time and ignore the steady traffic. But yesterday there was fully five thousand people, after the show that wanted to ride to the business centre of the city, and for lack of cars 4,993 had to walk. The company should make some provisions for handling large crowds. It would be money to them, and a great favor to the public.

WHAT FOOLS WE MORTALS BE

Is Thomas Lawson's Intimation in His Address on "Frenzied Finance."

Minneapolis, July 14.—Thomas W. Lawson, the hero of "Frenzied Finance," of Boston, was the guest of the Minneapolis Commercial club. Mr. Lawson spoke before 300 members of the club. He seemed full of energy and the utmost respect was paid to him paid to him by his hearers. He said in part:

"I'm not afraid of personal violence. I came out here unguarded, paying my own expenses, and I am going to make a life work of this. I have several millions myself, and I wronged the American people in getting it, but I did not know it at the time. When the time comes I will give that money back to them. If I live I am going to make the American people sell every dollar's worth of stock they have and by that time they will know better than to buy back."

Mr. Lawson scored the Equitable Life Assurance society heavily. "I have several millions," he said, "but I haven't any more than I mentilled to, the way the game is played, for I know the game, and I have live dup to the rules of it."

"I am going to kill the system, not by law or anything they can delay by red tape, but by arousing the anger of 50,000,000 people"

NO PNEUMATIC TUBES FOR INDIANAPOLIS

GREAT WALLACE SHOW HAS COME AND GONE

One of the Finest, Best Equipped and Most Magnificent Circuses on the Road—Performances Were Unexcelled and Thousands Attended.

That the circus has not lost any of its power to interest, instruct and amuse the people, both young and old, was strikingly evidenced Friday on the occasion of the visit to our city of the Great Wallace Shows. The day was an ideal circus day in point of weather. The sun shone out hot and clear for the first time in fourteen days, and countless thousands of people came in by wagon and rail from the surrounding towns and country to join with the citizens in making the day a gala one.

And the big Wallace Shows was not a disappointment to any one, for a happier and more delighted crowd of people could not be imagined than were those who filled the big canvas almost to suffocation in the afternoon and evening, saw the interesting collection of animals with which the menagerie is filled, and witnessed the truly wonderful feats performed in the big show. Truly Wallace has surrounded himself with an aggregation replete with beauty and skill, that cannot fail to instruct, amuse and please all who take advantage of the opportunity of seeing it.

Everything about the circus was clean and well kept and the fact that everything about the big affair from the raising of the big tents to the parade and two performances, was conducted without a hitch or an accident of any kind, denoted the best of care and discipline among the army of employes.

The parade, which was one of the most interesting and beautiful that has been seen here for some time, was given at the appointed time and was greeted with many expressions of approval while the performances, which were given in the afternoon and evening, contained not a single dull moment, and the varied program was carried out in each instance without a hitch or an accident to mar the excellence or detract from the interest of the affair.

The thousand and one things that merit attention would take columns to tell, but it can be truthfully said that every feature was new and attractive. No show on earth has more beautiful horses, and certainly no more sensible ones, than Wallace's, and that alone has made for this circus a record hard to get around. Everybody loves a fine horse and when they go to Wallace's show they know they will be able to see them. The hundreds of actors are the best the world produces and some of the feats performed are marvellous indeed.

One thing can be truthfully said of the Wallace shows and that is that they give everything they advertise and a great deal more and Wallace will always be a welcome visitor to this city and have the approval of our people. It was one of the cleanest shows that ever came to town and up to the hour of going to press we have not heard of a single arrest made on account of the show.

LABOR DAY

Some Attractions Already Announced

Encouragement Being Received All Along the Line—The Day to Be a Crowning One

All days are big days, but there is only one day—Labor Day. Not many celebrations have been given in the city of Vincennes, that will equal the demonstration to be pulled off on September 4. This year it will be a particular one, and every detail will be on strictly labor lines. Distinctive demonstrations will mark every event from early morn until late at night.

Every feature will be arranged to amuse and enthuse, in fact each moment on the grounds will be taken up in some free open air attraction. The moving pictures, one of the greatest wonders of the twentieth century, will be on at night. The spacious pavilion will be well lighted and dainty dancing will be indulged in both day and night. A select band concert, from latest creations and foremost authors, will be part of the afternoon and evening program. Automobile and bicycle races have been arranged for the afternoon. Speakers will be heard both afternoon and night by noted labor leaders. There are many other attractions in view which will be announced later on, and some are worth going many miles to see.

Already space is being taken in order to get the pick of locations and the committee, composed of Walter Berry, John O. Luten and John DeCraets will be at Lincoln park Sunday at 2 p. m. to let privileges. The committee is meeting with good encouragement all along the line, and although there have been few donations, many have signified their willingness to donate some cash.

RENOVED

Shooter From the South Will Give

Exhibition of His Work at the Gun Club Grounds Monday Afternoon Free to All

We are pleased to present to our readers a good cut of Terry Davenport, the celebrated rifle and revolver expert, who will be entertained by the Gun Club Monday at their shooting grounds, and will give the people of Vincennes an exhibition of his skill with rifle, revolver and shotgun, at about 3 p. m. This work is absolutely free and all are invited—especially our women and children. Mr. Davenport was enroute to Martinsville, where he shoots today, and called on us last evening. Judging from his looks he certainly should shoot, as he is a husky looking type of humanity and has put in most of his life in the mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, where they all shoot. Come out and let's see if he hits them all.

ADDITIONAL PERSONALS

FIRST USE OF "LOBSTERS"

The English Soldiers Were So Called Because of Their Red Coats.

The word "lobster" as a slang term of ridicule and opprobrium is generally regarded of recent origin. On the contrary, says the Philadelphia Press, it would seem to go back at least to the seventeenth century. In John Raldrin Buckstone's play, "The Green Bushes," produced in London about 70 years ago, the scenes are laid at the time of the Irish rebellion of 1793. One of the characters mentions the English soldiers derisively as "lobsters," referring, no doubt, to the uniforms of the "redcoats." Eden Phillips, in his novel, "The Farm of the Dagger," published last year, makes an American prisoner of the war of 1812 speak of the British soldiers as "lobsters." A fanciful etymologist might easily find a connection between the present-day slang use of "lobster" and the sixteenth century word "lob," denoting a sluggish and stupid person, which occurs in Shakespeare and contemporary plays and poems, usually as a synonym for "lubber." But the earliest known instance of the derisive use of the slang term is the coupling of "lobsters and tatterdemalions," meaning soldiers and vagrants by Tom Brown (1673-1704). Brown is the satirist who made the much-quoted impromptu adaptation of an epigram from Aristotle directing it against his instructor and being: "I do not like thee, Dr. ell."

You're n. Turn Now. Teacher—Bobbie, what is the meaning of interne? Bobbie—It means to dismantle and disarm. "Correct. Now give an example." "Mother interned last light." "Bobbie, Bobbie! How ridiculous!" "Tain't neither. She took off her clothes and then laid away her switch."—Kansas City Drovers' Telegram.

The Teeth.

The teeth can be kept in good condition by thoroughly cleaning the mouth at night before going to bed. Charcoal tablets are good for the teeth. Eat solid food and be sure to chew it well. The predigested foods, if taken without solids, will hurt the teeth, as the teeth must have exercise.
