GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

United State of America, State of Indiana, Executive Department.

By the Governor-A Proclamation. By virtue of the authority vested in me by law and in conformity with long established custom and formal legislative enactment, I, J. Frank Hanly, governor of the state of Indiana, do hereby designate and set apart Monday. September fourth, one thousand nine hundred and five, as Labor Day.

and I do hereby further proclaim the same as a holiday and recommend that it be observed as such not only by those who toil, but by men and women everywhere throughout the state, whatever their field of labor or

This Nation, with all it represents or is, is labor's contribution to the present sum of human peace and happiness. Within little more than a hundred years,-with the aid of her twin servants, capital and science, she carved it out of the depths of primeval forests and the solitudes of the pathless prairies; bridged its streams, revealed the hidden treasures of its fields and mines, builded its villages and towns, established its cities, reared within its borders homes innumerable, and bound them all into one with belts of steel and endless threads of wire. Through the divine ministry of toil the fulness of the land is ours. We live in favored times. The elements of the soil, of the air, and of the sky, and the season's themselves have conspired with labor to make this a year of immeasurable plenty throughout the Nation and especially within our own goodly Com-

It is therefore meet and proper that we set apart this day to celebrate labor's triumphs and to do honor to her children.

Therefore, let the flag-emblem of law and order, and of the equality of our citizenship—be publicly displayed. Let public and private business be suspended as far as may be consistent with necessity, and especially let those, so far as practicable, who labor with their hands be released from the performance of their daily tasks in order that they may have one day free from toil and care. Let the spirit of the occasion be such as becomes a glad and joyous celebration of the mighty force that has made us great both as a state and as a Nation, and upon which depends the prosperity and happiness of our posterity.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of Indiana, at the Capitol in the city of Indianapolis, this twenty-eighth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five, of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirtieth, and of the admission of the state of Indiana the J FRANK HANLY, eighty-ninth. Governor of Indiana.

DANIEL E. STORMS, Secretary of State.

Mayor Greene's Proclamation.

National law having designated the day, and labor, wide as the earth and having its summit in heaven, decreeing that it shall be observed, Monday, September 4, 1905, will be the occasion of a grand demonstration pall-bearers were George Mulloch, in Vincennes on behalf of the toiling classes

That a' f our citizens, regardless of their station in life, may learn lescons the duty of labor, the achievements of work, the dignity of toil, of . opportunities and advantages, its' sacredness and its blessings, pectfully request that there be a general suspension of business in factory, shop, storehouse, office and counting room, and that the accounts and employes thereof participate in the exercises of the day.

The people enmasse are urged to join the laborer in celebrating his annual holiday, in paying homeage to labor; in contemplating the working man in the light of his achievements, as the wonderful being he is, and the credentials of his glory.

· Labor Day celebrations, such as will be held in Vincennes, are calculated to arouse within the human mind deeper and nobler thoughts, for Labor is life itself. From the inmost heart of the worker rises his Godgiving force, the sacred celestial life-essence breatned into him by the Almighty, from his inmost heart awakens him to all nobleness, to all knowledge---'self knowledge'--and much else, so soon as work fitly be-

In the dawn of the twentieth century we should study the wonderful progress of the world and learn of the achievements of Labor, which has won grander victories, weaved more durable trophies and held wider sway of 87 years than the conqueror And we can best do this by a proper observance of GEORGE E. GREENE,

Had Narrow Escape From In stant Death --- Lightning beaves Its Mark.

Lightning's pranks came near finding a victim Friday afternoon during the electrical storm which passed over the city. Marshall Summitt, a brother of ex-Sheriff Louis Summitt, was engaged in drilling a well for Haines livery stable just across the river opposite the city, when a bolt of lightning flashed and Summitt fell to the ground apparently dead. He was picked up and carried into the house where he soon revived but the lightning left its mark on his arm and today he carries a large blue streak where the flash hit him.
