PRINTS WILL ENTERTAIN

Hold Meeting and Decide on a Manner of Entertaining Labor Day Guests.

Every day brings forth new ideas and stems feelings towards New Labor Day, so much so that numerous questions are being asked the committee concerning this or that particular thing hinging upon this event—the nearest to a working man's heart and livelihood. The touch of hand to hand and heart to heart, creating a sense of brotherly love and womanly kindness, makes each step taken the broadest and most worthy of any day in all the year. The pulse beats on Labor Day for all alike, despite all past feelings of bitterness and good will, and as the day draws nearer each being is pushing the wheels of energy, making New Labor Day the most instructive of all future events.

Keeping abreast of all things to make New Labor Day a greater success, Vincennes Typographical, No. 395, has taken a step that is in full accord with their manner of doing things wisely and well. The printer's last evening held a special meeting and made elaborate plans for New Labor Day. Nearly all the members were on hand and evidenced intense feelings towards making everything fairly bristle. A special committee, consisting of Frank Crotts, Clyde Ayres, A. W. Pringle and J. C. Mayes was appointed to make arrangements to meet and entertain Theodore Perry and Edgar A. Perkins of Indianapolis, who will be the printer's guest Sunday and Monday. The two visitors will be present at the monthly meeting of the prints which will be at 1 p. m., in Noble's hall, and there make short talks. After the meeting a trip will be taken up the river on "The Echo," returning in the evening, after which a levee will be held at the Grand hotel parlors. A special report will be arranged for the trip, and it goes without saying, that there will be nothing left undone.

MULE ATE A HATPIN

The Fancy Stick Pin Traversed 70 Feet of Intestines Before it Gave Trouble.

Dr. G. C. Meskimen, veterinary surgeon of this city, tells a very interesting incident as follows, says the Lawrenceville Republican:

For the past four weeks, F. K. Miller of Russell has noticed that a yearling mule belonging to him was not doing well. This week, a swelling appeared on the right side about six inches from the point of the hip. In this situation Mr. Miller called Dr. Meskimen Wednesday. Upon examination, it was determined to lance the swollen place. It was done and no pus was found.

While examining the injured part a substance like a piece of wire was discovered sticking through the floating colon. It was removed and proved to be an eight-inch long ornamental hat pin. The mule had evidently swallowed it while eating hay and entering the tract head foremost the hat pin passed three-fourths of the way through the digestive tract without trouble. In the colon, however, it became so turned as to thrust the point two inches through the intestine. Since the tract is 92 feet long, it had gone through 70 feet of it without hurt. The animal is doing well since the operation.

MUST KEEP THE PEACE

Squire Boecher Renders Verdict in the Cauthorn-Alexander Suit.

The case of Mrs. Cauthorn against Mr. Heary Alexander was won by Mrs. Cauthorn. The case lasted nearly three afternoons in Squire Baecher's court and was a very hard fought one. The following is the complete verdict of Squire Baecher as he rendered it yesterday morning.

"On account of the prominence of the parties to this suit in this court, the rendering of the decision is a sacrifice which ought to have been shouldered by a jury. About nine years ago I gave the promise to inform the parties in every suit of the motives and grounds upon which my decisions are based and this suit should be no exception. The question to be settled in this court, in my opinion, in this controversy, is whether the complaining witness has just cause to entertain the fears which are expressed in the affidavit at the time of the filing of the same. It is not of any importance as to who has title to the land, in this suit, one party may have as much right for possession of the land by possession as the other one has by deed. The land may be claimed by conveyance or by actual possession. In this cause is a contract with a fatal condition to it which will no doubt be settled in the circuit court, together with the title of said land. The preponderance of evidence in this cause plainly shows that said fence in question was erected by the said complaining witness, Mrs. Cauthorn, labor and material purchased and paid for, by said party holding possession of the said land and that said party had, at the time of the filing of the affidavit, just cause to fear that the said fence would be torn down by the defendant and I therefore recognize said defendant over to the Knox circuit court and he to give bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance in the afore said court in the first term, thereof and keep the peace meanwhile toward the person named in the affidavit and the property."

The defendant gave bond, and will no doubt, have the case brought up in the circuit court as was mentioned in the Squire's finding.

CAPTURED A TARANTULA

Yesterday afternoon as Charles Datillo was cutting off some bananas for a customer at the Datillo confectionery store, he found a large tarantula sticking upon the banana stock. After finishing cutting the fruit for the customer, he went into the store and got a large glass jar and two long sticks. Placing the jar under the bunch of bananas, he took the sticks and caught the tarantula by two legs and lifted it into the jar. At first it jumped around very frantically in the jar, but finally settled down and would not even jump at one's finger. Mr. Datillo stated that he gave it a number of flies during the afternoon and evening and that it ate all of them. He expects to keep it at the store for a few days.

WATERMELONS ARE MOVING

The first car load of this season's watermelons were shipped from Oaktown Saturday. Every day since then shipments have been made, and by next week things will be lively in this vicinity. The first car load sold brought $200, but Monday a car load was sold for $175, another for $150—while on Tuesday they went as low as $140. The indications are, however, that the price will not go lower than the last named during the season, as the melons are ripening slowly and the crop is not as large as in former years.—Oaktown Record.
