

GET PARK READY FOR LABOR DAY CELEBRATION
Concession Booths Are Being Put in Shape for Crowds

The city's park will by tonight be transformed into the customary Labor day arena with everything in readiness for the big day tomorrow. Many concessions were pressed into service yesterday getting things in shape for the celebration, and the work will be continued today. The concessions are being put in shape in many tents erected while the field has been prepared for the athletic events. The parade will be carried out in accordance with the details mapped out early last week.

OBSERVE LABOR SUNDAY
All Churches Devote Part of Services to the Day

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Labor Sunday was celebrated here today by nearly all of the churches in the city, at least some portion of the regular Sunday service being devoted to discourses on organized labor. In a score of churches representatives of labor unions occupied the pulpits and in many others special sermons were based on organized labor.

Labor Sunday this year does away with the industrial parade that formerly has been the chief feature of Labor day celebrations. Instead of the parade, tomorrow will be spent by members of unions in picnics and parties.
