joined to Oakland City late Sunday afternoon from their week's camping trip at Wyandotte Cave, near Leavenworth, Ind. The boys were tired but happy, and they all report a wonderful week.

Mrs. Frances Mason served as their cook and housekeeper. D. A. Mc-Kinney spent the week with the boys and the Rev. A. E. McKenney spent Thursday and Friday with them in their camp

TO CONTEST WILL

A suit contesting the will of the late Mary L. Littlepage was filed in circuit court Friday, seeking to have the document declared invalid and asking to revoke the proate. The title of the action is Hiram Ireland, William R. Ireland, Adele Blackburn, and others against Frank C. Ireland and Frank C. Ireland as executor of the will and as administrator of the estate of Mary L. Littlepage, deceased, and others.

H. W. Read

Mr. Read, who is coach of Western State Teachers College at Kalamazoo, Mich., will be in Oakland City all next week to conduct a basketball coaching school at the Oakland City College gymnasium. Many high school coaches from southern Indiana are enrolled for the week's coaching work.

In the past four years Mr. Read, the school instructor here next week, has won 59 out of 70 games played. His team has not been defeated on its home floor for four years. He will demonstrate and coach all drills used in his famous fast break system, as well as cover the full field of basketball coaching.

College physical education credits will be given for the course.

Fifteen boys will be used to demonstrate the various plays.

The visiting coaches will be allowed the free use of Oakland City's golf course, located on the Stephens farm east of the city.

An outline of the week's work follows:

1. The problem of coaching.
2. The fast breaking game.
3. Individual defense.
4. The foundation work for team defense.
5. The offensive and defensive break.
6. The "pattern idea" in creating an offense.
7. Offensive systems.
8. Intercepting defense.
9. Morale.
10. The theory of substitution.

The course will be some different from all other courses of its kind.
 One half of the time will be spent on theory and the rest of the time to demonstrate the points discussed.

LABOR CELEBRATION TO BE HELD IN PARK

Representatives of labor unions sponsoring the annual Labor Day celebration, meeting at Boonville last Sunday afternoon, voted to hold the meeting in the Lafayette park at Princeton. Princeton had previously been given the celebration.

Formerly the Labor Day celebrations have been held in the Gibson county fair grounds. It is believed that the park will accommodate the huge crowd. The Legion ball park will be used for parking automobiles, as will several vacant lots.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED

Elzie Lyles has filed suit in the Gibson circuit court against Duane Kingsbury seeking $15,000 damages for injuries alleged received when the wagon of which the plaintiff was riding, three miles west of Princeton on state highway No. 64 on February 15, last, was struck by an auto driven by the defendant.

be back at work. The temporary code plan was decided upon as the most direct pathway to that objective, since weeks usually are necessary for hearings and settlement of permanent codes.

Summoning his staff about him, Johnson conferred at length on important but undisclosed plans for a renewed offensive to bring all of industry into NRA membership.

He gave approval to temporary wage and hour provisions for the magazine and periodical, electrical storage and wet primary battery and paperboard manufacturing industries, and then lashed out at "various rackets having for their object the getting of money in connection with the NRA."

"Publications using misleading titles, conveying the impression that they are sponsored by the national recovery administration, are attempting to charge merchants, manufacturers and others for listing as being entitled to the use of the blue eagle banner, etc." Johnson said in a statement.

"Another form is that of some local newspaper associations charging business men for listing their names on what purports to be an honor list.

"The national recovery administration wishes to warn people against these projects. Of course, this organization has no control over the advertising columns of papers beyond insisting that no bootlegging of the blue eagle emblem shall be permitted, but so far as countenancing any charge for inclusion of an honor roll, people submitting to such extortion are not only wasting their money but encouraging a form of petty graft."

Forty-hour weeks are proscribed in the codes today for the three industries which were permitted to operate under their own agreements pending formal hearings.

Contrasting with the streams of hearings during the past few weeks, only two were in progress today—wallpaper and corsets.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for newspaper publishers continued their conferences with Dudley Cates, an assistant administrator. They submitted an agreement which was immediately studied by the administration's legal department, pending a decision whether it would be acceptable for immediate application until hearings could be held.

On Wednesday the hearings begin on the controversy-encrusted code for the bituminous coal industry, with more than 20 tentative agreements to be harmonized.
