BROADWAY BRIDE

By ETHELDA BEDFORD, Author of "DEAR DIARY"

© 1931 CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

READ THIS FIRST: Nita and Natalie Dudley, orphaned small town sisters, both attractive, are on their way to New York, intent on bettering themselves. Nita is the smart girl of today. Natalie is the more reserved, younger. She wonders where Nita has obtained money for the trip, and besides, she is carrying orchids. Nita shocks Natalie by intimating that she obtained the money from Natalie's former employer. Natalie is concerned, hurt. Nita explains that she has borrowed the money, and explains the conditions, but Natalie remains worried. A young man, sitting opposite them in the Pullman, offers them a magazine. Nita flirts with him. In New York they find a little apartment in the Village. Nita proceeds to hunt a job crooning, and calls on Billy Lane, a well-known radio entertainer, without success. The girls are appalled at the cost of living in the city.
