Final Details Being Worked Out For Union Labor Day Celebration in Princeton; Gigantic Parade

Final meeting of the Southern Indiana Labor Day Association in preparation for the gigantic union Labor Day celebration in Princeton on Monday, Sept. 1, was held Sunday afternoon at the C. L. U. hall here, with all reports from the officers and delegates of many southern Indiana local unions indicating that this years celebration will be far bigger and better in every way than ever before.

The celebration will open with a parade in five big divisions at 10 a. m. through the principal streets of the city and to the fairgrounds. Henry J. Fritz, this city, parade marshal, announced that the head of the long line will leave Main and Water street exactly at 10 a. m., move along the south west and north sides of the public square, north on Main to Spruce, west to the fairgrounds and half way around the race track. The various parade divisions, with at least eight bands, many floats, hundreds of marchers, etc., will form on Main street, south of Water and extending south on highway 41.

DISPLAYS PRIZES

Parade representations will be judged, for cash prizes, from the free attraction platform in the fairgrounds. Three business men—Henry J. Maurer, Boonville; Harold Chappell, Oakland City, and a merchant of, Princeton, have been named to judge the union labor floats. Three union men will judge the business house floats and store windows. These judges, drawn Sunday afternoon, are George Martin, Boonville; Theodore Kays and Arch Smith, Princeton. The store window displays of union made goods bearing the union label, will include all stores around the public square and extending one block each way off the public square.

In addition to these cash prizes, the miners have in competition a handsome loving cup among their own rank and

CONRAD WEISHEIT KILLED ON FARM NEAR MACKEY

WELL KNOWN GIBSON COUNTY MAN CRUSHED SATURDAY P.M. WHEN TEAM MADE WILD DASH WITH WAGON IN BARN LOT.

Conrad Weisheit, 50, prominent Gibson county farmer, residing about two miles east of Mackey, in the Weisheit school community, southeastern part of the county, was almost instantly killed about 1:30 Saturday afternoon when his head was crushed between a wagon tongue and a tractor during the dash of a frightened team of horses.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Bawel church, Lynnville, with burial in the church cemetery.

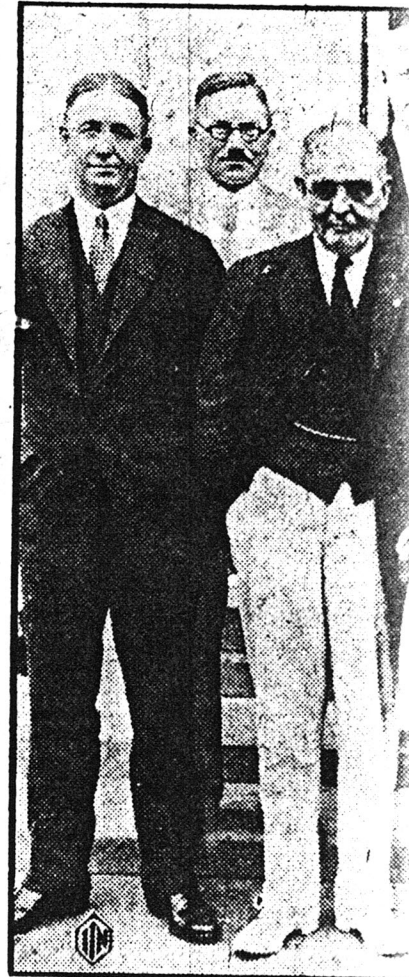

The tragedy occurred, it is understood, while a team of horses was standing hitched to a wagon in the barn at the Weisheit farm. The horses dashed through the doorway. In attempting to halt the team, Weisheit ran in front, but was struck and carried against a tractor.

Weisheit's head was crushed between the wagon tongue and the tractor. His head and face were badly mangled. The body was taken to Boonville and prepared for burial, following which it was removed to the home Sunday afternoon.

Weisheit is survived by the widow, two children, several brothers and other relatives. His tragic death came as a distinct shock to the entire community.

FINE PROGRAMS BY LEGION BAND DAILY AT FAIR

PROFESSOR OSTER AND LEGION ORGANIZATION PLAYING THROUGHOUT WEEK—BEST TALENT, INCLUDING SOLOISTS.

Princeton American Legion Band, which will play all concerts, day and night, at the Gibson county fair throughout the week, is composed of the finest musical talent.

Several members of the band here this week are soloists of the higher caliber. S. Bert King, director of the First Regiment Band, Vincennes, has solo cornet. Glenn Garrison, Worthington, Ind., has first chair trombone and wrote special arrangements for xylophone solos by Miss Marcia Skelton, of this city. Claude Smith, formerly of Oakland City and now director of the Tell City high school band, is assistant solo cornetist. There are others widely known in the musical world.

In addition to these soloists, Karl Church, Princeton tenor, and Russell King, of Evansville, have numbers throughout the week.

Prof. Irvin L. Oster, director of the Legion band, has arranged the finest concert programs for every afternoon and evening throughout the week at the fair. The band is likewise playing for all free acts. Following are the Tuesday band programs:

Afternoon
March, "Pasadena Day" (Weaver). Song by band, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot?"

"American Patrol" (Menckham). Euphonium Solo, selected, Lavon Coolman.

Negro Characteristic, "Down South" (Myddleton).

"Springtime in the Rockies," featuring saxophone duet and vocal chorus, Fred Van Miller, Carl Neuman and Irvin L. Oster.

Vibraphone Solo, Russell King. March, "National Emblem" (Bagley).

Night
March, "Tenth Regiment" (Hall). Overture, "Morning, Noon and Night" (Suppe).

Xylophone Solo, "Lonesome Little Doll," Marcia Skelton.

Selection from the Movietone opera "Rio Rita" (Tierney).

Vocal Solo, "Sunrise and You" (Penn), Karl Church.

Descriptive, "A Hunting Scene" (Bucquloss), portraying an old English fox chase.

REMOVED TO VINCENNES

Mrs. Eliza Green, of Francisco, was removed from her home to Vincennes, that Monday afternoon in the Lamb rested ambulance.

In addition to these cash prizes, the miners have in competition a handsome loving cup among their own rank and file, for display and attendance of membership, the cup to be won three times by a local to become permanent property of that local. Ends mine local has previously won the cup twice.

Arrangements were made to clean up and sprinkle the fairgrounds next Sunday, Aug. 31, following the fair, in order to have everything spic and span for the labor day celebration. Special police officers will handle the parking of cars, as well as keep the parade route cleared of vehicles.

The Red Cross and Methodist hospital tents are to remain in the fairgrounds for the celebration.

FAIRGROUNDS PROGRAM

At the grounds, an extensive program of addresses by noted labor leaders, free acts, fug of war, band concerts, boxing show at night, etc., will entertain the thousands expected to attend, during every minute following the parade. Princeton American Legion Band, directed by Prof. Irvin L. Oster, will head the parade and likewise play throughout the day and evening at the grounds. M. Cliff Townsend, director of organization of the Indiana Farm Bureau, will be one of the noted speakers.

The speakers reception committee is composed of Elmer Whitman, this city, president and Andrew Witherow, Oakland City, vice-president of the Labor Day Association; Howard Harvey and Thomas Davis, Princeton, Southern Shops employes and a man to be named from the Farm Bureau. The parade cars for speakers and officers are to assemble at the Kidd Hotel at 9:30 a. m. Details will be published later in the week and fairgrounds programs distributed to the crowd.

Further impetus was added to the celebration plans with announcement that the Oakland City Schools will not open until Tuesday, Sept. 2, thus permitting all pupils as well as citizens in general, to participate in or witness the celebration.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH MEETING

A pre-Labor day meeting will be held on next Sunday evening, August 31, at 7:30 in the Broadway Christian church here. Fred A. Aten, of Columbus, O., grand lodge deputy of the carmen's lodge, will deliver an address that all should hear and it is expected to pack the church for this meeting.
