LABOR DAY

Indianapolis News.
 George McGuire, a cigar maker, is credited with having been the father of the Labor day idea. He urged, at a labor convention in Chicago—in 1884—that one day be set apart each year as a labor holiday, when labor organizations could celebrate their achievements and recount the progress of their cause. McGuire continued to urge this plan until the first Monday in September was set apart in most states as a holiday, to be known as Labor day. McGuire died at Manchester, N. H. November 22, 1913.

There is a vast difference between Labor day in this country and abroad. Most of the European countries observe the first of May as their Labor day, and it is frequently marked by riotous demonstrations. Labor day in Europe has been the occasion of bloodshed more than once when it was seized on to demonstrate hatred of the employing class. Europe always breathes easier when the May day celebrations are over.

In America it is the custom to observe Labor day much as other holidays are observed. The banks and public buildings close, business is suspended generally and labor organizations meet in an orderly manner to celebrate their day of days. As they look over the year that is past they realize again the truth of the assertions frequently made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the worker in this country is the best paid in the world, that he has a better home life, better working conditions and more progress to his credit than the men who labor under any other flag.

It is worth recalling that the American Federation of Labor has stood squarely against any radical movement in America.
 Samuel Gompers held that position during his long service with the federation, and Green, who succeeded him, has made the federation's position even stronger. Labor realizes that what it has won has been through an orderly campaign, and it has no use for the forces that would tear down the country's institutions.

A SPORTY JURY
 From the Charleston News and Courier.
 Down in Arkansas a man was tried for a with intent to kill. The State produced as evi-used, a rail, a gun, saw and rifle. The defendant produced as the other man's weapons a scythe, pistol, dog razor and hoe. After being out several days the jury gave this verdict: "We, the jury, would have given the fight."

From the Charleston News and Courier.
 Down in Arkansas a man was tried for assault and battery with intent to kill. The State produced as evidence the weapons used, a rail, a gun, saw and rifle. The defendant's counsel exhibited as the other man's weapons a sexthe blade, pitchfork, pistol, dog razor and hoe. After being out several hours the jury gave this verdict: "We, the jury, would have given a dollar to see the fight."
