IN LABOR DAY SPEECH THE PRESIDENT SAYS THERE IS NO ROOM FOR IDLERS

Addresses Vast Assemblage at Syracuse, N. Y., on Opening of State Fair—Secret Service Men on Guard —Text of the Speech

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Beautiful weather and immense crowds of people greeted the President here today, the occasion being his speech at the fair grounds and the Labor day celebration.

The Roosevelt special arrived at 9:30 this morning. The President and party were escorted by troops to Hanover Square, where he reviewed the Labor day parade.

From the reviewing stand, where over thirty thousand people were assembled, another parade was formed, escorting President Roosevelt to the fair grounds, where the President began his Labor day address at 12:40. After the exercises, the President lunched at the club house on the fair grounds and from the balcony watched the races.

At five o'clock the presidential party returned to the city and the President dined with former Senator Frank Hiscock. The President leaves at ten tonight for New York.

The President left Oyster Bay at nine last night on a special train, for Syracuse. At Hoboken a big man caused much excitement as President Roosevelt was boarding the train for Syracuse. The man persistently followed the President and made efforts to speak to him. When arrested he was found to be unarmed.

Following is a portion of the President's Labor day speech:

President's Address.

In speaking on Labor Day at the annual fair of the New York State Agricultural Association, it is natural to keep especially in mind the two bodies who compose the majority of our people and up whose welfare depends the welfare of the entire state. If circumstances are such that thrift, ener-es of labor have likewise risen; both as regards the actual money paid and as regards the purchasing power which that money represents.

Side by side with this increase in the prosperity of the wage worker and the tiller of the soil has gone on a great increase in the prosperity among the business men and among certain classes of professional men; and the prosperity of these men has been partly the cause and partly the consequence of the prosperity of the farmer and wage worker. It cannot be too often repeated that in this country, in the long run, we all of us tend to go up or down together. If the average of well-being is high, it means that the average wage worker, the average farmer, and the average business man are all alike well off. If the average shrinks, there is not one of these classes which will not feel the shrinkage.

Of course, there are always some men who are not affected by good times, just as there are some men who are not affected by bad times. But speaking broadly, it is true that if it is true that of prosperity comes all of us tend to share more or less therein, and that if adversity comes each of us, to a greater or less extent, feels the tension. Unfortunately, in this world the innocent frequently find themselves obliged to pay some of the penalty for the misdeeds of the guilty; and so if hard times come, whether they be due to our own fault or to our misfortune, whether they be due to some burst of speculative frenzy that has caused a portion of the world to lose its head—a loss which no legislation can possibly supply—or whether they be due to any lack of wisdom in a portion of the world of labor—in each case the trouble once started is felt more or less in every walk of life.

It is all-essential to the continuance of our healthy national life that we

VINCENNES HOLD-UP

ent Farmer Sandbagged and Robbed of $20 and Watch.

VINCENNES, Ind., Sept. 7.—Andy Purcell, one of the wealthiest and known farmers in this county, robbed while returning to his after a trip to Vincennes. Purcell is just about a mile out of Vinces. He stopped his horse and all the men to get in for a "lift." Purcell had barely started the horse before one of the men drew a gun and struck him over the head it, inflicting a very painful blow dazed Purcell and while in this condition one of the men went through his pockets and extracted $20 and a gold watch.

Recovering somewhat Purcell asked the fellow who hit him on the head and knocked him out of the saddle.

Both then leaped out of the saddle and escaped. Mr. Purcell hurried back to Vincennes and brought back the stolen property. It had fallen in the road during the struggle.

gy, industry and forethought enable the farmer, the tiller of the soil, on the one hand, and the wage worker, on the other, to keep themselves, and their wives, and their children in reasonable comfort, then the state is well off, and we can be assured that the other classes in the community will likewise prosper. On the other hand, if there is in the long run a lack of prosperity among the two classes named, then all other prosperity is sure to be more seeming than real. It has been our profound good fortune as a nation that hitherto, disregarding exceptional periods of the depression and the normal and inevitable fluctuations, there has been on the whole from the beginning of our government to the present day a progressive betterment alike in the condition of the tiller of the soil and in the condition of the man who, by his manual skill and labor, supports himself and his family, and endeavors to bring up his children so that they may be at least as well off as, and if possible better off than, he himself has been. There are, of course, exceptions, but as a whole the standard of living among the farmers of our country has risen from generation to generation, and the wealth represented on the farms has steadily increased, while the wagand so if hard times come, whether they be due to our own fault or to our misfortune, whether they be due to some burst of speculative frenzy that has caused a portion of the world to lose its head—a loss which no legislation can possibly supply—or whether they be due to any lack of wisdom in a portion of the world of labor—in each case the trouble once started is felt more or less in every walk of life.

It is all-essential to the continuance of our healthy national life that we should recognize this community of interest among our people. The welfare of each of us is independent fundamentally upon the welfare of all of us, and therefore in public life the best representative of each of us who seeks to do good to each by doing good to all; in other words, whose endeavor it is, not to represent any special class and promote merely that class's selfish interests, but to represent all true and honest men of all sections and all classes and to work for their interests by working for our common country.

There is no room in our healthy American life for the mere idler, for the man or woman whose object it is throughout life to shirk the duties which life ought to bring. Life can mean nothing worth meaning, unless its prime aim is the doing of duty, the achievement of results worth achieving. A recent writer has finely said:
"After all the saddest thing that can happen to a man is to carry no burdens.
To be bent under too great a load is bad; to be crushed by it is lamentable; but even in that there are possibilities that are glorious. But to carry no load at all—there is nothing in that. No one seems to arrive at any goal really worth reaching in this world who does not come to it heavy laden."

Surely from our own experience one of us knows that this is true.
From the greatest to the smallest; happiness and usefulness are largely found in the same soul, and the joy of life is won in its deepest and truest sense only by those who have not shirked life's burdens. The men whom we most delight to honor in all this land, are those who, in the iron years from '61 to '65, bore on their shoulders the burden of saving the union. They did not choose the easy task. They did not shrink from the difficult duty. Deliberately and of their own free will they strove for an ideal, upward and onward across the stony slopes of greatness. They did the hardest work that was then to be done; they bore the heaviest burden that any generation of Americans had to bear; and because they did this they have won such proud joy as it has fallen to the lot of no other men to win, and have written their names forevermore on the golden honor roll of the nation. As it is with the soldier, so it is with the civilian. To win success in the business world, to become a first-class mechanic, a successful farmer, an able lawyer or doctor, means that the man has devoted his best energy and power through long years to the achievement of his ends. So it is in the life of the family, upon which in the last analysis the whole welfare of the nation rests. The man or woman who as bread winner and home maker, or as wife and mother, has done all that he or she can do, patiently and uncomplainingly, is to be honored; and is to be envied by all those who have never had the good fortune to feel the need and duty of doing such work. The woman who has borne, and who has reared as they should be reared, a family of children, has in the most emphatic manner deserved well of the republic. Her burden has been heavy, and she has been able to bear it worthily only by the possession of resolution, of good sense, of conscience, and of unselfishness. But if she has borne it well, then to her shall come the supreme blessing, for in the words of the oldest and greatest of books, "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed;" and among the benefactors of the land her place must be with those who have done the best and the hardest work, whether the law gives credit as soldiers, whether in public or private life.

This is not a soft and easy creed to preach. It is a creed willingly learned only by men and women who, together with the softer virtues, possess also the stronger; who can do, and dare, and die at need, but who while life lasts will never flinch from their allotted tasks. You farmers, and wage workers, and business men of this great state, of this mighty and wonderful nation, are gathered together today, proud of your state and still

He such as ours can exist only in virtue of the orderly liberty which comes through the equal denomination of the law over all men alike, and through its administration in such resolute and fearless fashion as shall teach all that no man is above it and no man below it.

SOUSA AT STATE FAIR

Miss Liebling and Miss Otten will Appear With Band.

With the concerts of Sousa's band at the Indiana state fair, during the week of September 14, will be two artists who accompanied the band on its tour of Europe, and who sang and played before the royal heads of nearly every country on that continent, among them being the king and queen of England, at Windsor Castle. The soprano soloist is Miss Estelle Liebling and there will be violin solos by Miss Anna Otten. Neither have ever been heard in Indiana. These two artists will be on both programs at the fair grounds on the afternoons of September 16 and 17, and they will also be heard at the evening concerts on these dates, which occur at Tomlinson hall. While Sousa's band has been at the Indiana state fair several times, this will be the first time a singer and a violinist have appeared on his programs there.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. strong virtues that have given us as a people greatness in the past. It is not enough to be well meaning and kindy, but weak; neither is it enough to be strong, unless, morality and decency go hand in hand with strength. We must possess the qualities which make us do our duty in our homes and among our neighbors, and in addition we must possess the qualities which are indispensable to the make-up of every great and masterful nation—the qualities of courage and hardihood, of individual initiative and yet of power to gombine for a common end, and above all, the resolute determination to permit no man or set, of men to sunder us one from the other by lines of cast or creed or section. We must act upon the motto of all for each and each for all. There must be ever present in our minds the fundamental truth that in a republic such as ours the only safety is to stand neither for nor against any man because he is rich or because he is poor, because he is engaged in one occupation or another, because he works with his brains or because he works with his hands.
We must treat each man on his own see that each is given a square deal, because he is entitled to no more and should receive no less. Finally we

Editor Clarion News:
The institute held September 4-5 at New Albany in the interests of horticulture and good roads, was a success in every particular and the institute favored government aid in road building.

While there I had an opportunity of seeing a thirty-five-thousand-dollar Carnegie library building nearing completion and I would suggest that two or three of our citizens interested in the library building to be built here, go to New Albany and see the style and kind of building being erected there, which will help in a realization of what we will have here.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W.
S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says:
"After using unmerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to De-Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by

Where's the Comparison?

An exchange wants to know what would be thought of a man that would have his pants made from sixteen to twenty inches longer than his legs and then go around holding them up to keep them from trailing around in the mud and filth. He would probably be considered crazy. But where does the comparison come in? We don't know of any women who do this.

land, are those who, in the iron years from '61 to '65, bore on their shoulders the burden of saving the union. They did not choose the easy task. They did not shirk the difficult duty. Deliberately and of their own free will they strove for an ideal, upward and onward across the stony slopes of greatness. They did the hardest work that was then to be done; they bore the heaviest burden that any generation of Americans had to bear; and because they did this they have won such proud joy as it has fallen to the lot of no other men to win, and have written their names forevermore on the golden honor roll of the nation. As it is with the soldier, so it is with the civilian. To win success in the business world, to become a first-class mechanic, a successful farmer, an able lawyer or doctor, means that the man has devoted his best energy and power through long years to the achievement of his ends. So it is in the life of the family, upon which in the last analysis the whole welfare of the nation rests. The man or woman who as bread winner and home maker, or as wife and mother, has done all that he or she can do, patiently and uncompromisingly, is to be honored; and is to be envied by all those who have never had the good fortune to feel the need and duty of doing such work. The woman who has borne, and who has reared as they should be reared, a family of children, has in the most emphatic manner deserved well of the republic. Her burden has been heavy, and she has been able to bear it worthily only by the possession of resolution, of good sense, of conscience, and of unselfishness. But if she has borne it well, then to her shall come the reward such as ours can exist only in virtue of the orderly liberty which comes through the equal denomination of the law over all men alike, and through its administration in such resolute and fearless fashion as shall teach all that no man is above it and no man below it.

With the concerts of Sousa's band at the Indiana state fair, during the week of September 14, will be two artists who accompanied the band on its tour of Europe, and who sang and played before the royal heads of nearly every country on that continent, among them being the king and queen of England, at Windsor Castle. The soprano soloist is Miss Estelle Liebling and there will be violin solos by Miss Anna Otten. Neither have ever been heard in Indiana. These two artists will be on both programs at the fair grounds on the afternoons of September 16 and 17, and they will also be heard at the evening concerts on these dates, which occur at Tomlinson hall. While Sousa's Band has been at the Indiana state fair several times, this will be the first time a singer and a violinist have appeared on his programs there.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting di-
