"MA" FERGUSON IS FACING TEST AT POLLS TODAY

CASTING OF 300,000 VOTES FORECAST, DUE TO HEAT OF CONTEST—MANY ISSUES

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 23. — (AP) — The fate of Miriam A. Ferguson's attempted political come-back was in the balance today as the state's former woman governor opposed Ross D. Sterling, Houston publisher and capitalist, for the nomination for governor in the Democratic primary. Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission and Mrs. Ferguson, emerging from a field of eleven candidates in the first primary, concluded a vitriolic campaign last night which aroused the state. James E. Ferguson, ousted governor barred from the race by his impeachment, conducted his wife's campaign on the promise of "two governors for the price of one." Notable among his campaign utterances was the promise that all imprisoned violators of the prohibition law would be liberated if Mrs. Ferguson won the election. He said she would free 2,000 convicts. Attacks Proposal Ferguson attacked Sterling's proposal that the state issue $350,000,000 in highway bonds, his education, his ability, his attitude toward labor and his reputed wealth. Sterling, a novice in politics, countered with an attack on Mrs. Ferguson's pardon and parole record, references to Ferguson's impeachment and named "honesty in government as the paramount issue." Sterling was aided by Governor Dan Moody, who strongly denounced the Ferguson pardon record. Leaders of the warring factions predicted the casting of 300,000 ballots.
