

NO CELEBRATION HERE

Labor Day to Pass Quietly in Princeton Monday

There will be no Labor Day celebration in Princeton, Monday, but the holiday will be generally observed by suspension of business. A celebration will be held in Evansville, at which W. H. Raney, of this city, member of the district executive board of the miners, will be one of the speakers. There will be no parade in Evansville. It has been decided.

BIG CROWD AT ANDERSON

Had Thirty Thousand For the Thursday Attendance

ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 4.—The attendance was estimated at 30,000 or more on Thursday, the second day, of the Madison county free fair. Visitors from a distance were surprised to find a half-mile track within a city park—Athletic park—four blocks east of the court house, with one of the most unusual fairs they ever witnessed, they said.
