LABOR DAY—SEPTEMBER 4

The plan of setting aside one day in the year on which labor might be recognized originated in 1882 with Peter McGuire, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. In May of that year he submitted a proposal to the Central Labor Union in New York that labor set aside a day and stage a parade and that the parade be followed by a picnic, the proceeds of which would be divided among the participating organizations. The first Monday in September was suggested as the day. The first celebration occurred with a parade in New York City. On October 9, 1884, the Federation of Organized Labor Unions of the United States and Canada meeting in Chicago voted to make the celebration national. On February 21, 1887 the legislature of Oregon set apart the first Monday in September as a state holiday in honor of labor. Within three months similar action had been taken by four other states. By 1894 the day had been made a legal holiday in thirty states and on June 28, Congress passed an act making it a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and in the territories. The day is now observed in every state. Labor Day has become to be one of the most generally observed holidays in the United States.

LABOR DAY

Tomorrow is Labor Day . . . dedicated to the men and women of Gibson county and the United States, whose working hands provide our food, our clothing, our shelter, serve us in offices and shops and till the soil.

Labor Day is dedicated, too, to the principles of freedom and democracy that the laboring men and women have worked and fought for . . . the high standard of living they have achieved and maintained . . . the prosperity that is and will be theirs, and ours, as long as there is free American labor!

The road to progress in Princeton and Gibson county has been paved with the toil of the workers within it, by the goods they have produced and bought, by money invested in homes and by their participation in civic affairs. Labor's achievements have meant a better way of life in a greater, more prosperous America.

We respect the heritage of rights for the common man with which Labor has endowed us . . . we are grateful for the many blessings of goods it has brought us.

CONGRATULATIONS!

We congratulate the town of Francisco for the forward step taken securing a water system for its residents. Contracts have been let for a system to serve more than 200 families. Previously private wells and cisterns have been the individual source of supply.

It will be a wonderful improvement for a fine little town.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If you serve only self you will at last lost all. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve.—Matthew 4:10.
